Your information is only used for business purposes.

JA shall review its retention of such data on a 10 year basis and JA shall not sell or rent your information to any third parties.

JA may pass your information to third party providers including, but not limited to; Actors, sub contactors and other associated organisations for the purposes of providing our services to you. However, when we use third party service providers, we shall only disclose the information that is essential to deliver our service. JA shall never release information to non-work related third parties for them to use for their own direct marketing purposes, unless you have explicitly requested JA to do so, or unless we are required to do so by law.

Non-sensitive details (email addresses etc.) are usually transmitted over the internet and this can never be guaranteed to be 100% secure. Consequently, whilst JA makes every endeavour to have the appropriate malware/virus protection installed alongside our IT department, we cannot guarantee the security of any information you transmit to us, and you do so at your own risk. JA shall continue to make best efforts in ensuring your data is secure on our systems.

This privacy policy also only applies to JA and we are not responsible for the practices and privacy policies of any other sites even if accessed via the JA website. The same rule applies if you accessed the JA website from a third-party portal. JA is not responsible for the practices, privacy policies, owners and operators of any other sites, so we encourage you to check any third-party sites for their data protection policies.

JA requests your consent to the terms outlined in this policy with regards to JA holding and processing your data. You have the choice to withdraw consent. Please call the office if you need to discuss further, otherwise we will take this as your consent.

As a company we are responsible for meeting the GDPR obligations and ICO requirements and have all the requisite policies and procedures in place to adopt 'best practice' in our commitment to implementing GDPR.
